Motivations

The objective of the conference is to bring together Experts, Researchers, Equipment Manufacturers and Consultants, in order to discuss the latest state of the art in the field of water and wastewater technology. After sixteen years of success, the Conference now aims at collecting all the multidisciplinary expertise that converges into the assessment, management and control of human-hydrological systems.

In fact, IWTC offers a broad range of topics, covering different phases of the water cycle and the related knowledge, and wants to stimulate the interaction between experts having different backgrounds, including service providers and stakeholders. Due to the high impact of our activities on general water security concerns, attention will be given to water policies, regulations and emerging water security issues.
